

THE FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

REPUBLICANS MADE TO FEEL THE EFFECTS OF THE NEW RULES.

The Senate Bill Providing for the Ascertainment of the Mortgage Indebtedness of the Country Passed in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was approved—yes, says I. The Republicans were the first to feel the effects of the new rules, permission being refused several, who were not present during the roll call, to record their votes thereafter.

On motion of Mr. Burrows of Michigan the Senate amendments to the House bill fixing the duty on ribbons were concurred in.

Mr. Dannel of Minnesota, from the Committee on the Eleventh Census, reported back the Senate bill providing for the ascertainment of the mortgage indebtedness of the country.

Mr. Dockery of Missouri offered an amendment providing that sections 13 to 16 of the original Census act shall apply to the provisions of this act. He said that the bill was not an amendment to the original act, and consequently its defect lay in the fact that it failed to provide any pains or penalties for officers guilty of malfeasance, or for any person or corporation who refused to answer any question propounded.

Mr. Dannel said that although he did not wish to delay the passage of the bill, he would make no objection to the amendment.

Mr. Buchanan of New Jersey doubted the power of Congress to compel a United States citizen to disclose his indebtedness to anybody.

Mr. Blount of Georgia opposed the amendment. He was not willing to turn the inequitable power loose in the land. If no penalties were attached to the information obtained, it would be absolutely accurate, and he thought that the House should hesitate before it started an inequitable system over the country.

Mr. Mills of Texas did not regard the amendment as inequitable. It only sought to enforce the law. If there was any inequity it was in the provision of the bill.

Mr. Washington of Tennessee favored the amendment. There was nothing inequitable about it. It was no more inequitable than for an enumerator to ask the age of a young lady or an old bachelor.

Mr. Sherman of New York said that the bill being asked for by mechanics, laborers, and farmers, he hoped that it would pass in the form it came from the Senate.

Mr. Cannon of Illinois did not believe that this legislation was wise. All the letters he had received (and he had received many) upon this subject were in the shape of protests against this measure. It would not give any valuable information. He doubted the wisdom of the House in passing this legislation.

Mr. Tillman of South Carolina advocated the bill and the amendment. The gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Cannon) may have half a dozen farmers in his district who were opposed to the bill; but there were half a dozen thousand farmers who were asking for this legislation.

Mr. Springer—Demanding it.

Mr. Henderson of Iowa was constantly in support of the bill. He did not pretend to say that the information received would be absolutely accurate, neither did he pretend to say that the agricultural laborers of the United States had adopted resolutions favoring the pending legislation. It was the duty of the House to pass the bill with the amendment.

The amendment passed 98 to 63, and the bill as amended passed 188 to 25.

Among the measures favorably reported from committee were the following: By Mr. Adams of New York, for the Judiciary Committee, the International Copyright bill; by Mr. Rogers of Illinois, the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, the Dingley bill exempting vessels from payment of State pilotage fees where they have a United States pilot or licensed master; by Mr. Culberson of Texas, to create a Court of Patent Appeals; by Mr. Stanford of Iowa, to organize the Territory of Oklahoma.

Public business was then suspended, and the House proceeded to listen to appropriate eulogies to the memory of the late Hon. Richard W. Townsend.

Aldermen were made by Messrs. Holman of Indiana, Hooker of Mississippi, Compton of Maryland, Cullerton of Michigan, Johnson of Iowa, McMillin of Tennessee, and Williams, Henderson, Cannon, Lane, and Springer of Illinois, and others, a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, the House, at 5 o'clock, adjourned.

Killed by a Policeman.

COLEMAN, Feb. 15.—Policeman Casey attempted to arrest James Judge at his home, night before last, but the latter refused to go with him without a warrant. The policeman used his club on Judge's head, pulled him out of the window, and took him to the station. Tonight Judge died, and a coroner's inquest is being held without halt, pending an examination by the coroner.
